PROCEDURE GUIDE | Ingenium

Cancelling a Critical Illness Insurance Policy

Requirements and steps for processing a policyowner's request to cancel a critical illness policy, including refund rules and claim checks.

Purpose

This guide covers cancellation requests for individual critical illness insurance policies. Cancellation ends coverage, so confirm the request carefully and check for open claims before you process it.

Up-front checks

1. Confirm whether the policy is individual or group. Group policies follow a separate process.
2. Check the claims history. If a claim is open or a diagnosis has been reported, refer the request to Claims before cancelling.
3. Confirm that the policy number matches the coverage type in the request. If the client owns several policies, confirm which one is to be cancelled.

Requirements

- A written request signed by the policyowner, or a completed cancellation form.
- A signature from the irrevocable beneficiary, if one exists.
- For refund cheques of $10,000 or more, the processor must also complete an unusual transaction report.

Refund rules

Situation	Refund
Cancelled within the free look period	Full premium paid
Cancelled after the free look period	Unearned premium to the end of the paid period, if any
Cancelled because the owner replaced the policy	Process as a standard cancellation. Send any disclosure statement to Compensation Services.

Procedure

1. Search for the policy and open the Cancellation function.
2. Enter the requested effective date. It cannot be earlier than the date coverage started.
3. Select the cancellation reason and attach the signed request.
4. Review the refund amount and confirm the transaction.
5. Send the cancellation confirmation letter to the policyowner and the advisor.

Notes

- If the policy number in the request is out of force, do not assume another number. Write to the client or advisor to confirm.
- Keep the signed request and any correspondence on the policy file.
